When the report reached this city that Juy-Eye-See had lowered the Mand S. record by s quarter of a second the greatest interest was manifested in sporting circles as to the shifty of the little mare to beat it. and when she rounded the home-stretch in grand style the excitement was intense. The wonderful performance is the gen-erai topic of conversation. It having been stated that Mand S. would trot a fast mile and probably sudeavor to lower her record, fully 5,000 people were present at the race track to witness the event; but they had no idea of the rare treat that was in store for them. Very few persons bebeat the time made by Jay-Eye-See Friday, and consequently but few bets were offered. The principal bet was made between Captain Stone, her former owner, and Mr. Lauterbeck, a well-known fancler. Bair, the driver, brought Maud on the track and exercised her trequently be-tween heats of other races. By four o'clocs she was in the form and condi-tion, and President Edwards amounced that Maud S. would then be driven a fast that Maud S. would then be driven a fast mile for the amusement of the audionce. The pretty little thing watched the weighing of the driver and other presimisaries with apparent interest and when the word was given to go, she gathered herself for a desperate effort, and before reaching the first quarter had settledherself lub a 2:08 gait and passed it in thirty-two seconds. The haif was made in 1:04 still maintaining the rap d pace. The third quarter was a trifle slower, but after rounding into the homestretch her speed was terrific. With her head stretched forward and her eyes flashing she shot under the wire like a rocket having completed the circuit in 2:09 3-4, maintaining her reputation of "Queon."

In order to fully appreciate the great victory of the little mare over time and space, it must be said that from the start to the finish the whip never touched her glossy cout, and it appeared at one time that to the finish the whip never touched her glossy coat, and it appeared at one time that a little urging on the part of her driver would have maintained to the close the gait at which she started. When a few moments later the figures, 2:09 3-4 were displayed from the jadges' stand, a shout that shook the grand stand went up from the delighted audience, and the excitement was intense. Enthusiastic horse fanciers are claiming that this is not the limit to the mare's abilities, and predict she will yet reduce the figures to predict she will yet reduce the figures to not far from two minutes. TEEMER WINS. Che Pittsburgh Sentier Wiss a Handsoms Victory Over Wallace Ross, the New Bruns-wick Champion at Oak Point, N. Y. New York, August 4.

The long-fooked for single scull race beween Wailace Ross, of New Brunswick, and John Teemer, of Pittsburgh, came off Saturday before a very large assemblage for Teemer by a clear length, in 26 mla utes and 32 seconds. At 6:35 p. m. the men were ordered to their stations. Teemer was the first to put his boat in the water. Ross came out five minutes afterward. Both men appeared in spleudid condition. The betting at this point was $100 to $50 on. Teemer. The Pittsburgh designation forced the odds up to this point. Ross almost anticipated the starting point, and at once drew away with a twenty-eight stroke. Teemer started off at a livelier rate, making thirty strokes to the minute. Despite thas, Ross gradusity drew away and in haif a minute showed a lead of haif a length. There was no semblance of spurting by either rower, but Ross further increased his lead to a length at the mile buoy. The swell from the sound steamers bothered them slightly, but they soon got through the broken water and then the strugge became desperate. As Teemer cut down Ross led inch by loch. In a quarter of a mile Teemer had spurted to the front and in another 200 yards he showed open water. It was now clear to all that Ross was settled. Themer rowed a fine stroke while Ross became very erratic. This, in addition to his exhausted condition, made him labor heavily. At the stake boat Temer was leading a long way, and the turn was made by him in 13:15. Ross time was 13:171-2. From this point to the close it was a procession, though Teemer caught a bad "crab." betting at this point was $100 to $50 on

Dr. Alden offered prayer, making t-aching mention of the dead and rendering deep than sgiving for the preservation of those who were rescued. Mayor Treat then delivered an address of weicome on behalf of the city to the rescued, the rescuers and all the visitors, saying the courage, the fortitude and said evinced by the officers and men of this expedition have for blood another line trains of the by the officers and men of this expedition have fur, ished another illustration of the truth that "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Rev. II. E. Howey followed with a welcome rom the citizens, expressing their pride that two Portsmouth boys were among the rescuers, and assuring the survivors that however magnificent their future evasions might be, none their future evations might be, non-would be more truly from the heart than their first by citizens of Portsmouth.

Secretary Chaudier was then introduced. He gave a history of the Greely and the feller expeditions, saying "Our drit duty is to pay our tribute of praiss and of mouraing to of praise and of mouralog to those devoted men who, having completed their two years of fruitful abor came southward to Cabe Sa-tine, and after months of starvation, borne with heroic cornitude and pattence, perished as truly on the field of duty as if they had met ther fate at the caminon's mouth. The people of the United States look back on their record with a just, but mourning their record with a just, but mourning price, and whenever, throughout the world, the story of their heron-endeavors and sufferings is told, the memory of these marters to duty will lofewer be cherished and held in honor. With special tend-roses, we turn to Leutenant Greely and his comrades, the only survivors of an American Arctic exporting party which reached out further toward the pole than any previous explorers. For their labor and their endurance we honor them; for their sufferings we give them our pity and sympathy; and to omfort, cheer and encourage them, we promise them the gratitude of their Government and their countrymen. tereted in Washington.

The istest in this matter is that the Costom-house has declade; that it alone was competent to issue cerufficates whether to merchants or labours, and so notified the Chinese Consul. The latter communicated with Washington and Secretary Freingauysen decoded that Chinese quasulate cerufficates should be treated as primb facile evidence. Later still, moon prime facto evidence. Lateratio, upon the arrival of the last Coina stamer, tourteen Chinese were found on board equipped with Chinese consum certificates. They were not allowed to and at once, and the Chinese Consul again telegraphed to Mr. Freinghuysen, in response to which the joi-owing dispatch was received at the Custim-house!

Action Sequential.

No statement concerning the personal in question has been made by the collector of the port to Wash ngton, and the action of the State Department was based entirely upon the representation made by the Chinese Consul. It was also be noticed that the Washington authorities requested the landing of ten more Chinese than were held. If the District Court here holds the Chinese consular certificates to be good, there is no te hig how many irregular landings white by made.
